Wardner, Idaho, June 21, 1906.

Today I talked with Mr. McBride at the employment office about work. He told me that I could go to work at the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine in the morning, and gave me a letter to the foreman, Mr. Davie. I went to the mine and talked to the foreman and he told me to come to work in the morning.

I went back to town and met John Young, a union miner working at the Last Chance Mine. He told me to keep quiet, for if they would find out that I was a union man, they would not give me work. We went to Pages Hotel and had cigars. I could not find out anything further, so I went to my room and retired at 10:00 P.M.

Everything is very quiet around here at present: the union men are very careful of what they say and whom they talk to.

Yours respectfully,

S-2
